			Citizens First 8 presents a comprehensive look at how clients view government services and places increased emphasis on providing actionable data for service executives and managers across the public sector. While the study continues to delve into the areas examined in previous surveys, such as service reputation, client experience and expectations, it also employs innovative approaches that offer new insights on key issues facing the public sector today. With this objective in mind, the study introduces methodologies that take advantage of the latest in behavioural science, as well as incorporates data from other research with the aim of providing a fresh perspective on
